COMMONWEALTH PLAZA EVENTS & TRANSFORMATION

Paris 1910-1920 was known as The City of Light, a city full of utopian thought, glowing with energy and bustling with cafés, vendors, and newsstands. This is the inspiration designer Mimi Lien used for the transformation of the Kimmel Center Commonwealth Plaza.

Inside the Plaza, an 81-foot light-filled Eiffel Tower will reach for the sky, as trains and planes zoom overhead. Enjoy coffee and pastries in the morning, crêpes during lunch, and free wi-fi all day in our Plaza café. Wine tastings, free nightly performances, and a full service bar keep the energy alive at night.

ABOUT PIFA

The Philadelphia International Festival of the Arts (PIFA), inspired by the Kimmel Center, launches the city's art and cultural scene onto the world stage with a three-week festival offering performances, exhibits and events for loyal fans and casual attendees. Based on the philosophy of collaboration, innovation and creativity, PIFA's programs represent every arts discipline and include more than 100 partners. Offerings include newly commissioned works, classical performances and exhibits, surprising partnerships featuring local and international artists, and exciting explorations of traditional, non-traditional, new and emerging art forms. PIFA 2011, an homage to the artistic energy of Paris 1910-1920, celebrates works from that era and new creations inspired by the brashly innovative spirit of the period. The festival was made possible by an extraordinary grant from Philadelphia philanthropist Leonore Annenberg, whose vision for a city-wide celebration of the arts shaped its philosophy and programming. PIFA takes place April 7-May 1, 2011.
